Tax Cut Bill Sent To Ford

Washington (AP) — Congress passed Wednesday night a $24.8 billion anti-recession tax cut package that includes rebate checks and tax reductions for virtually all Americans.

After talking to President Ford, a key Republican predicted Ford will veto the measure. Ford had proposed a considerably smaller tax cut totaling $16.2 billion.

However, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager of the legislation, said a presidential veto would be "a very bad mistake."

"The President will not be able to write his own ticket and have it all his way with Congress," Long said, after pointing out that the final bill was cut sharply from the measure originally passed by the Senate.

The Senate passed the bill on a 45-16 vote, which came at 10:45 p.m. CDT, shortly after the measure cleared the House 287 to 125.

Both the Senate and House then adjourned until April 7 for an Easter recess.

Following the House vote, Republican House Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona said he had talked to Ford. He predicted a veto, saying: "I imagine the President is reconsidering . . . the whole idea of a tax cut in this frame of the economy," Rhodes said.

The compromise legislation, approved earlier in the day by a Senate-House Conference Committee is designed to stimulate the economy by putting extra money into the pockets of most Americans within

A major provision of the bill provides for rebates of 1974 income taxes averaging 10% of taxes paid, up to a maximum rebate of $200.

The bill also calls for a $30 tax credit on 1975 income for every taxpayer and each member of his family.

These reductions would mean a reduction of at least $220 in 1974 and 1975 taxes for every family of four in the United States.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford expressed dismay during the meeting with GOP leaders over "astronomical spending proposals moving through Congress." He said Ford "has to weigh the tax cut bill against these oncoming spending proposals."

A spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service said the tax agency is set up to begin sending out rebate checks within 45 days after the bill is signed by President Ford and expects to have paid all the rebates within six weeks after that.

The $24.8 billion measure approved by the conferees compares with Ford's request for a $16.2 billion in tax cuts.

The Senate approved tax cuts of $30.7 billion and added $3.6 billion in increased spending, most of it in special Social Security and rail retirement payments, for a total package of $34.3 billion. The House approved a $19.8 billion tax cut.

Under the bill approved by the conferees, a family of four with adjusted gross income of $6,000 would receive a tax cut of $510 including the 1974 rebates and reductions on 1975 taxes.

In all, the rebates on 1974 taxes will total some $8.1 billion and are designed to give the lagging economy a quick infustion of cash.

The rebates will average 10% of 1974 taxes paid, until the adjusted-gross-income level of $20,000 is reached when the rebates will drop gradually to $100.

Families that paid less than $100 in 1974 taxes will receive full refunds. All other taxpayers will receive at least $100 and a maximum of $200.

There are no income restrictions on the $30-per-person tax credit on 1975 taxes. In addition, the bill carries an extra $1.5 billion in special refunds designed to offset the cost of Social Security taxes paid by poor working families that do not earn enough money to pay other federal taxes.

Tax cuts for business include:

-Raising the investment tax credit to 10% for 1975 and 1976 from the current 4% for utilitites and 7% for all other businesses. This will allow a business to subtract from its tax bill 10% of the money spent for machinery and equipment. The increase in the allowance would cost the government $3.35 billion.

Cathedral of the Risen Christ In the Cathedral of the Risen Christ, there are two artistic representations of the "Supper at Emmaus" - one executed in relief-sculpture and the other in stained glass. As the artists, sought to bring forth various shades of meaning of the resurrection of Jesus, by depicting numerous scenes from the Scriptures, it seems significant that this scene from Chapter 24 of Luke's Gospel is twice portrayed.

Recall the event.

While the two disciples were "on the road" to Emmaus, Jesus "came up, and walked by their side, but something prevented them from recognizing Him" (vs. 15). As they journey together toward Emmaus, the disciples explain all about this "Jesus of Nazareth who proved He was a great prophet by the things He said and did," but whom the leaders of the people had put to death. These two travelers further state that some women of their group have reported that He is alive — but nothing has been found of Him.

Upon arrival at the village, the travelers insist that Jesus stay with them. As they break bread together, "their eyes are opened and they recognize Him." The truth of the resurrection dawns upon them during their shared meal.

In similar fashion, the other three evangelists report similar experiences in their postresurrection accounts: though Jesus is among them, the disciples have difficulty recognizing Him. Jesus is mistaken for a gardener by Mary Magdalene; Thomas doubts because he was not with the Apostles when Christ first appeared to them; yet He is really in their midst.

The resurrection of Jesus

Msgr. C.J. Crowley

Christ from the dead is the foundation doctrine of Christianity. "If Christ has not been raised from the dead . . . then your belieiving is useless, . . . and we are the most unfortunate of people" (I Cor.15:14ff). With the resurrection of Jesus from the dead the Christian faith arose.

Yet no one witnessed this event. There are many witnesses to the fact that Jesus arose (e.g., I Cor.15:4ff); however, there were no witnesses of the resurrection itself. It is a doctrine of faith and not a proveable fact. What the witnesses experienced and proclaimed is that Jesus had risen and was living among them - even if they oftentimes had difficulty in perceiving His presence. Jesus of Nazareth, now the

Risen Lord, continues to live in our world today He is with us as we journey through life. But like the two going to Emmaus, often something prevents us from recognizing Him. We have heard about the "incidents" that took place in Jerusalem. But like many of those people, we are "so slow to believe the full message" (Luke 24:35).

The "news about Jesus" transforms into "belief in the Risen Lord" in Christian communities where "our hearts burn within us as the Scriptures are explained" (Luke 24:32) and "our eves are opened in the breaking of the bread" (Luke 24:35).

reductions for the Lincoln area last year.

Deal said the proposed rate changes would apply to new policies and to existing policies on their renewal dates. "Most of the rates in Lincoln are down,

Allstate Insurance Co. has also asked the department for a general rate increase similar to the Bureau application. However, Deal said the application was too

Christ from the dead is the foundation doctrine of Christianity. "If Christ has not been raised from the dead . . . then your belieiving is useless, . . . and we are the most unfortunate of people" (I Cor.15:14ff). With the resurrection of Jesus from the dead the Christian faith arose.

Yet no one witnessed this event. There are many witnesses to the fact that Jesus arose (e.g., I Cor.15:4ff); however, there were no witnesses of the resurrection itself. It is a doctrine of faith and not a proveable fact. What the witnesses experienced and proclaimed is that Jesus had risen and was living among them - even if they oftentimes had difficulty in perceiving His presence. Jesus of Nazareth, now the

Risen Lord, continues to live in our world today He is with us as we journey through life. But like the two going to Emmaus, often something prevents us from recognizing Him. We have heard about the "incidents" that took place in Jerusalem. But like many of those people, we are "so slow to believe the full message" (Luke 24:35).

The "news about Jesus" transforms into "belief in the Risen Lord" in Christian communities where "our hearts burn within us as the Scriptures are explained" (Luke 24:32) and "our eyes are opened in the breaking of the bread" (Luke 24:35).

rate increase ranging from 41/2% to 8%. In Lincoln, however, certain types of auto insurance with those firms would be slightly cheaper. Deal said the Bureau was given similar rate reductions for the Lincoln area last year.

Deal said the proposed rate changes would apply to new policies and to existing policies on their renewal dates. "Most of the rates in Lincoln are down, rates in terms of cost, severity and frequency," The department has not made a decision on the application as yet, but Deal said a decision will be reached within a couple of weeks.

because the firms are experiencing better accident

A final decision, he said, will be based on premiums written in the past, losses and current economic trends. If the reduction for Lincoln drivers is approved, Deal said, it would become effective within 90 days from now. Allstate Insurance Co. has also asked the department for a general rate increase similar to the Bureau application. However, Deal said the application was too complicated to be able to tell at a glance what it had in store for Lincoln policyholders.

Deal confirmed that insurance companies in the last year have taken a financial beating in the stock market.

Another department official recently reported that a healthy company writes $2 in premiums for every $1 it has in surplus. Due to stock market trends, he said some firms have $3 in premiums for every $1 in surplus.

However, Deal said the firms' stock market problems should not have any bearing on rates.

Nguyen Van Thieu vowed on Wednesday to "fight to the death if necessary" for Da Nang and appealed to the United States for help.

Boats and chartered American planes began a massive evacuation of an estimated 500,000 refugees at Da Nang fleeing the Communist advances. The Viet Cong announced its forces had heisted the Viet Cong flag over the ancient citadel of Hue, 50 miles to the north.

With half his country lost to the three-week North Vietnamese drive, Thieu declared in two nationwide radio broadcasts he would cede no more territory to the Communists and his army would fight to hold Da Nang, the country's second largest city and onetime American air

Most of the B1 increase was blamed on inflation, but other items on the list went up because more units ought to be purchased, because the production period is to be stretched out, because the Pentagon has ordered changes or because estimates were re-examined and it was decided the weapons would cost more than originally thought.

The total cost for purchase of new Navy patrol frigates, for instance, went up $1.5 billion for a total program cost of $6.8 billion. The Navy attributed the in-

Faisal Buried; Picture Of Nephew Confused

By United Press International Dressed in the flowing white robes of a bedouin sheikh, King Abdul Aziz Ibn Khalid ascended the golden throne of this oil-rich desert kingdom Wednesday.

Khalid, 62, succeeded his assassinated brother, Faisal, as ruler of one of the world's wealthiest nations. Faisal's body, wrapped in a white shroud, was burried in an unmarked grave.

Vice President Nelson Rockfeller arrived in Saudi Arabia and was scheduled to meet with the new king Thursday.

Saudi Arabian officials said Wednesday the accused assassin is still in custody. There was no immediate word on what punishment was planned or what his fate would eventually be.

In the United States and the Mideast, a confused picture emerged Thursday of the young prince who kissed his uncle, King Faisal, on both cheeks, pulled a revolver from his robes and killed him.

In the view of the prince's blonde girl friend and onetime fiance, Christine Surma, he was "a great guy, a genuis and a wonderful lover."

Officially, the Saudi government described him as "mentally unsound." But the Beirut newspaper Safir said he was "a known eccentric but not crazy.

According to another Beirut newspaper, King Faisal took a gentle view toward his nephew after the shooting. As the king lay dying, he was reported to have asked mercy for the nephew, saying, "I do not feel hate for him."

Surma said Wednesday she was baffled and shocked by the slaying.

She confirmed published reports that she became engaged to the accused slayer, Prince Faisal Ibn Musaed Ibn Abdul Aziz, 28, while visiting Saudi Arabia with him after they had lived together for several years.

Faisal Buried; Picture Of Nephew Confused

By United Press International

Dressed in the flowing white robes of a bedouin sheikh, King Abdul Aziz Ibn Khalid ascended the golden throne of this oil-rich desert kingdom Wednesday.

Khalid, 62, succeeded his assassinated brother, Faisal, as ruler of one of the world's wealthiest nations. Faisal's body, wrapped in a white shroud, was burried in an unmarked grave.

Khalid, 62, received pledges of allegiance from 2,000 Saudi princes, religious and government leaders, tribal elders and thousands of ordinary citizens in a somber ceremony in the royal

Vice President Nelson Rockfeller arrived in Saudi Arabia and was scheduled to meet with the new king Thursday.

Saudi Arabian officials said Wednesday the accused assassin is still in custody. There was no immediate word on what punishment was planned or what his fate would eventually be.

In the United States and the Mideast, a confused picture emerged Thursday of the young prince who kissed his uncle, King Faisal, on both cheeks, pulled a revolver from his robes and killed him.

In the view of the prince's blonde girl friend and onetime fiance, Christine Surma, he was "a great guy, a genuis and a wonderful lover."

Officially, the Saudi government described him as "mentally unsound." But the Beirut newspaper Safir said he was "a known eccentric but not crazy.'

According to another Beirut newspaper, King Faisal took a gentle view toward his nephew after the shooting. As the king lay dying, he was reported to have asked mercy for the nephew, saying, "I do not feel hate for him."

Surma said Wednesday she was baffled and shocked by the slaving.

She confirmed published reports that she became engaged to the accused slayer, Prince, Faisal Ibn Musaed Ibn Abdul Aziz, 28, while visiting Saudi Arabia with him after they had lived together for several years.

They are no longer engaged, she said. "He was a very wonderful person," Miss Sur-

The prince associated last year in Berkeley with young leftist Arabs opposed to the present governments of the Arab nations.

But one friend in Berkeley, and newspapers in Beirut, speculated that the prince's motive for shooting King Faisal was to avenge the killing nine years ago of the prince's brother. The brother was a member of the devout Wahhabi Sect who was killed in a demonstration against television, considered by the sect to be "the work of the devil.'

In Hollywood, Surma, said she lived off and on for five years with the prince in Boulder and Berkeley, and made two trips with her lover to the Mideast.

She said he was kind, devoid of hostility, devoutly religious and of late deeply interested in philosophy. She said he read 10 books a week.

"He would say that people like him never lived to be very old," she said. "I didn't know what he meant, but he did not think he would live past 30.

In 1966, the prince took an intensive English course at San Francisco State College. In 1967-71 he studied political science at the University of Colorado, and in 1969 was arrested in Boulder on an LSD possession charge. Rome - Pope Paul VI said Wednesday that the 1973 Paris accord on a cease-fire in Vietnam seemed to have been in vain. Speaking at his weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica, the pontiff recalled that the 1973 truce accord was believed to make the end of fighting and suffering. Ultra-Ridiculous

Glad we are that Mayor Schwartzkopf is back in form, back to work after his brief hospitalization. Hopefully health will permit him to devote his full energies to running the city and at the same time wage a campaign, along with the other candidates, which addresses the questions facing the city; which probes the record of the past eight years and proposes plans for the

Hopefully, too, the mayor has rid his system of political cliches and the language of the unfolding campaign will relate in some way to the situation as it exists here in Lincoln today.

Responding to an action taken by local Democrats last week the mayor said in a press release that "I'm not surprised that the Central Committee of the Lancaster County Democratic Party has endorsed (mayor candidate Helen) Boosalis and (City Council candidate Steve) Tiwald. This faction represents the very ultra-liberal side of the Democratic Party. This is the same group that is attempting to build a 'veto proof' council. dorse Mrs. Boosalis, so be it; that was their decision to make. The mayor's response makes him out to be a little envious, perhaps, and the suggestion is certainly strong that he is fishing for an endorsement from the county Republican organization.

By observing that he is "not surprised" at the action of the county Democratic central committee, Schwartzkopf is by inference lumping Mrs. Boosalis in with what he calls the "very ultra-liberals." The assumption is preposterous. Mrs. Boosalis is no more "very ultra-liberal" than the incumbent mayor. And, of course, neither of them is. And neither has been actively engaged in partisan politics during their public careers. That is, not until the mayor entered the arena with his recent com-

There is one thing that should be said. Few people have worked as hard over the past years as Mrs. Boosalis in efforts to CONSERVE Lincoln's unique character and quality of life.

The secretary of state flew from Andrews Air Force base by chopper to the White House, and the President congratulated him on his exertions and before he had time to get even a few hours' rest, he was up on The Hill and down in the pit with the reporters explaining what had happened or as much as he thought he could tell about what had happened, which is not the same thing.

It disaster.

Now he has to go there anyway - with a radicalized and self-confident Arab world, with his friend. President Sadat of Egypt, discredited, as he sees it, and with the Russians sitting with the United States at the head table as a legal participant and judge over the future of the

Mr. Kissinger's Latest Dilemma

President and secretary of state shake hands on the south lawn of the White House as Mr. Kissinger returns to Washington after unsuccessful 16-day mission . . .

Kissinger wanted a different scenario. He thought he had persuaded Sadat to agree that: (1) the problems of the Middle East could be settled only by negotiations; (2) there would be no recourse to force to settle the political differences; (3) military operations by Arab guerrillas against Israel would not be defended by Egypt, and (4) a compromise agreement between Israel and Egypt on these terms could not be replaced unless Israel agreed. In other words, that Israel could determine the length of the agreement.

* * * There was another problem over words. Kissinger thought he had Sadat's agreement on "nonrecourse to force," but the Israelis insisted on a promise of "non-belligerency." Kissinger wondered how he could explain the difference between these two phrases to Congress, but the issue was never resolved.

In short, Kissinger apparently believes that Sadat offered the

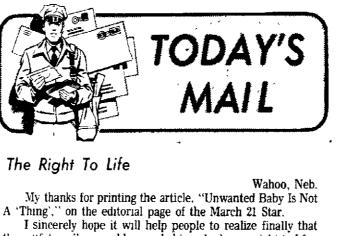

"functional or practical equivalent" of non-belligerency toward Israel, but that the Israeli government rejected this semantic compromise, and on the assumption that time was on its side, decided to go to Geneva and count on the support of the United States government.

While all these complications were being explained and envenomed in Washington, Tel Aviv and Cairo, King Faisal of Saudi Arabia was murdered. And while everybody is trying to make the best of this, the fact is that Faisal's successor is generally regarded as incompetent or worse, and the new man behind the throne, Prince Fahd, is a dubious gambler whose most spectacular achievement is that he once lost $2 million in a single night at a gambling table in Lon-

Against all this confusion of issues and personalities, maybe what is needed now is a little silence and judicious leaving alone. Nobody is preparing for war, nothing is really much different from the way it was before. Kissinger went to the Middle East at the beginning of the month. The Israelis and the Arabs now have to deal with the problem of living together, without Kissinger, and maybe this is the way it should have been in the first place. Whoever is to blame, recriminations about the past won't help the coming struggle at Geneva.

LB522 Unconstitutional?

Lincoln, Neb. LB 522, which provides for free bus transportation (through the use of public funds) for children attending private schools, raises some pertinent issues:

(1) Does it violate Article VII, Section 11 of the Nebraska Constitution?

(2) Is it violating the principle of church-state separation? Each individual is entitled to religious freedom. Why is the government to favor one religious group over another? The money that is not used for buses will be utilized for religious purposes. Are public funds to be supportive of non-public groups, especially when it has no power to supervise these

I hope our senators and the people of Nebraska will carefully analyze the implications of a bill which provides public assistance to private groups. It appears to me that government favoritism of one religious group over another is not a principle contained in either the United States or Nebraska Constitutions.

Drug Traffic In Schools

Lincoln, Neb. On Thursday, March 20, about 1:00 p.m., I had to go to one of the high schools and upon returning to my car, I watched what I am sure was the sale of drugs in front of the parking lot of this school. My children have told me for years that drugs are also sold inside the schools. So although I am not surprised, I am

What are we waiting for in Lincoln — some student to die of an overdose in the school (in such a way that it cannot be covered up) before we face the drug problem here? When I have tried to talk to school officials about drug traffic in the schools, they treated me as if I had the plague. Their main worry seems to be the reputation of the school. Don't school officials know yet that schools' reputations in virtually every part of our country have literally gone to "pot"? The very lives and future of our children are at stake. How can we give first priority to something so archaic and obsolete as a school's reputation? Why can't the police department concentrate as vigorously on the drug pushers loitering around and in our schools as they concentrate on drinking drivers? What are we afraid of?

It also seems unreal that the many vocal parents at the recent school board meetings never dared talk about the real problem, the drug problem, or do we in Lincoln still think it can happen only to the other fellow?

Free Market System

Dorchester, Neb. Government manipulation of grain export markets in recent months due to a short crop has unbalanced the free market system by turning away established export customers to other markets. This interference has resulted in depressed market prices to a level that is fostering the current 20% production cutback program by producers.

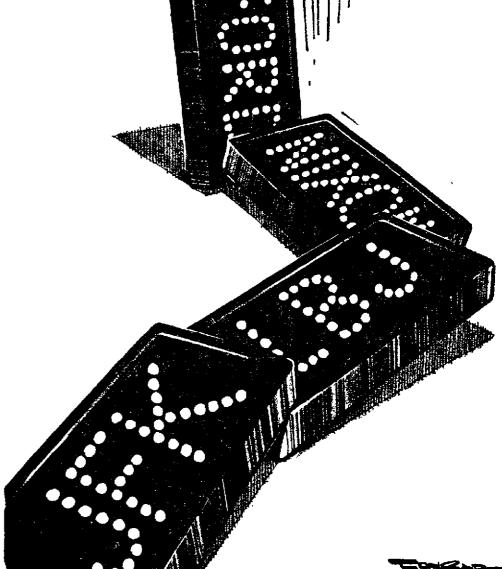

This seems to be a safe, conservative program considering that it represents a return to the normal planting that occurred years past when proper soil conservation and crop rotation practices were maintained.

With the phase-out of government production and storage programs, a guaranteed 100% free export market is now required to allow producers to profitably establish required production levels and adequate producer-held reserves. Mathematics teaches stable versus unstable equations to aid in designing controllable machine dynamics. Our government happened to pick an unstable equation for agricultural production and marketing when they applied the brakes on exports. The consumer majority and their representatives in the U.S.

Congress will have to face up to the fact that the agricultural production industry has now been economically shifted into international market gear. It can continue to produce profitably for itself and efficiently for the processors only if it can trade in a free market system without export restrictions randomly applied by the administration.

The Congress may soon have to establish this as a protection by law so that the U.S. farm industry can offset the apparent losses that will have to be incurred in feeding the people of this country as is already the case with beef production.

What Price Detente?

NEW YORK - With Cambodia apparently doomed and Saigon reportedly abandoning twothirds of South Vietnam because of lack of military aid solemnly promised by the United States government, the humiliation of America and the weakening of its influence in world affairs is now beginning to assume ominous

Those who urge that the United States let the communists conquer Cambodia and South Vietnam make two major points:

(1) That there is no justification for the socalled "domino" theory that the communist conquest of Cambodia and South Vietnam will have grave consequences elsewhere in the free

(2) That America's European allies are not concerned about the U.S. letting Cambodia and South Vietnam go down the drain.

A commentator in the New York Times recently accused President Ford of being stuck with "the old rhetoric" in using the domino and American credibility arguments to "drum up support" for more aid to the freedom fighters of Southeast Asia.

One wonders who are the sources of information for such commentators. The Thailand government has just announced that it wants the United States to evacuate its military and air bases in that country within a year and that it intends to seek diplomatic relations with Communist China.

In November, 1973, the then prime minister of Thailand told me in Bangkok that America's withdrawal from Vietnam meant the U.S. could no longer be counted upon as an ally, and that Thailand would have to turn toward Communist

Sir Robert Thompson, one of Britain's leading experts on Southeast Asia who advised President Nixon and Henry Kissinger in 1969 that American military forces could be safely withdrawn from South Vietnam provided the United States supplied the South Vietnamese with sufficient aid to maintain a military balance with North Vietnam, warned in a recently published book that American abandonment of South Vietnam would adversely affect Israel and could eventually lead to the "strategic surrender" of the United States.

His prediction that the domino theory would quickly apply to Israel already appears to be coming true. Correspondents who accompanied Secretary of State Kissinger on his Middle East peace mission reported that he feels the deteriorating situation in Southeast Asia had an impact on his negotiations; that Israel is less inclined to make concessions to Egypt because of doubt about the credibility of American

Secretary Kissinger, described as pessimistic, was said to believe the Soviets are sure to view America's declining prestige as a sign of weakness and to try to take advantage of it in some way, either by adopting a hard line in the nuclear arms and other negotiatons or by risking dangerous moves elsewhere.

What more evidence is needed to prove the reality of the domino theory that President Eisenhower warned about in 1954? Kissinger was also said to have told the correspondents on his plane that if he had known in 1972 and 1973 that Congress would cut aid to South Vietnam the way it has in the last year, he could not in good faith have negotiated the Paris Peace Agreement in the way he did.

This tends to confirm a statement made to me in Paris a few weeks ago by Ambassador Nguyen Xuan Phong, South Vietnam's chief delegate to the moribund Vietnamese Peace

Phong said President Thieu, with the greatest reluctance, agreed to accept the Paris Pact only because he was solemnly assured by Kissinger that the United States government would faithfully keep the commitment it made in the peace agreement to replace, one for one, every piece of military equipment the South Vietnamese military forces lost in defending South Vietnam.

On Wednesday (March 19, 1975) Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the South Vietnamese forces were being forced to withdraw from the Northern and Central provinces because the United States had not replaced losses in aircraft, tanks, and armored personnel carriers, nor had sent spare parts for those damaged.

In the light of all this, what credence can America's allies place in the credibility of its commitments - and what price detente?

Easter and some off campaigning for the presidency. But when he reported to about 20 leaders of the Congress on what had happened in his negotiations, he found that the reaction was violently anti-

Israel.

The secretary of state flew from Andrews Air Force base by chopper to the White House, and the President congratulated him on his exertions and before he had time to get even a few hours' rest, he was up on The Hill and down in the pit with the reporters explaining what had happened or as much as he thought he could tell about what had happened, which is not the same thing.

 $\triangle \triangle \triangle$

The main thing now, as usual, is where we go from here. It would be easy and fascinating to muckrake the past, and prove that Kissinger's step-by-step diplomacy was a failure, but the coming problem is the Geneva conference. Kissinger has always felt in the past that if he had to go to Geneva with the Soviets and all the Arab states, it would be an endless confusion of arguments and maybe even a scenario. He thought he had persuaded Sadat to agree that: (1) the problems of the Middle East could be settled only by negotiations; (2) there would be no recourse to force to settle the political differences; (3) military operations by Arab guerrillas against Israel would not be defended by Egypt, and (4) a compromise agreement between Israel and Egypt on these terms could not be replaced unless Israel agreed. In other words, Kissinger wanted a different that Israel could determine the length of the agreement.

Now he has to go there anyway - with a radicalized and self-confident Arab world, with his friend, President Sadat of Egypt, discredited, as he sees it, and with the Russians sitting with the United States at the head table as a legal participant and judge over the future of the Middle East.

Mr. Kissinger's Latest Dilemma

President and secretary of state shake hands on the south lawn of the White House as Mr. Kissinger returns to Washington after unsuccessful 16-day mission . . .

公 公 公 There was another problem over words. Kissinger thought he had Sadat's agreement on "nonrecourse to force," but the Israelis insisted on a promise of "non-belligerency." Kissinger wondered how he could explain the difference between these two phrases to Congress, but the issue was never resolved.

In short, Kissinger apparently believes that Sadat offered the

"functional or practical equivalent" of non-belligerency toward Israel, but that the Israeli government rejected this semantic compromise, and on the assumption that time was on its side, decided to go to Geneva and count on the support of the United States government.

While all these complications were being explained and envenomed in Washington, Tel Aviv and Cairo, King Faisal of Saudi Arabia was murdered. And while everybody is trying to make the best of this, the fact is that Faisal's successor is generally regarded as incompetent or worse, and the new man behind the throne, Prince Fahd, is a dubious gambler whose most spectacular achievement is that he once lost $2 million in a single night at a gambling table in Lon-

Against all this confusion of issues and personalities, maybe what is needed now is a little silence and judicious leaving alone. Nobody is preparing for war, nothing is really much different from the way it was before. Kissinger went to the Middle East at the beginning of the month. The Israelis and the Arabs now have to deal with the problem of living together, without Kissinger, and maybe this is the way it should have been in the first place. Whoever is to blame, recriminations about the past won't help the coming struggle at Geneva.

LB522 Unconstitutional?

Lincoln, Neb. LB 522, which provides for free bus transportation (through the use of public funds) for children attending private schools, raises some pertinent issues:

Constitution?

(2) Is it violating the principle of church-state separation? Each individual is entitled to religious freedom. Why is the government to favor one religious group over another? The money that is not used for buses will be utilized for religious purposes. Are public funds to be supportive of non-public groups, especially when it has no power to supervise these

(3) Mr. Crosby has noted that this bill is modeled after the Illinois law that withstood a court case. Is this a justification for such a bill in Nebraska?

I hope our senators and the people of Nebraska will carefully analyze the implications of a bill which provides public assistance to private groups. It appears to me that government favoritism of one religious group over another is not a principle contained in either the United States or Nebraska Constitutions. AMY BIRKY

Drug Traffic In Schools

Lincoln, Neb. On Thursday, March 20, about 1:00 p.m., I had to go to one of the high schools and upon returning to my car, I watched what I am sure was the sale of drugs in front of the parking lot of this school. My children have told me for years that drugs are also sold inside the schools. So although I am not surprised, I am

What are we waiting for in Lincoln - some student to die of an overdose in the school (in such a way that it cannot be covered up) before we face the drug problem here? When I have tried to talk to school officials about drug traffic in the schools, they treated me as if I had the plague. Their main worry seems to be the reputation of the school. Don't school officials know yet that schools' reputations in virtually every part of our country have literally gone to "pot"? The very lives and future of our children are at stake. How can we give first priority to something so archaic and obsolete as a school's reputation?

Why can't the police department concentrate as vigorously on the drug pushers loitering around and in our schools as they concentrate on drinking drivers? What are we afraid of?

cent school board meetings never dared talk about the real problem, the drug problem, or do we in Lincoln still think it can happen only to the other fellow?

It also seems unreal that the many vocal parents at the re-

Free Market System

Dorchester, Neb. Government manipulation of grain export markets in recent months due to a short crop has unbalanced the free market system by turning away established export customers to other markets. This interference has resulted in depressed market prices to a level that is fostering the current 20% production cutback program by producers.

This seems to be a safe, conservative program considering that it represents a return to the normal planting that occurred years past when proper soil conservation and crop rotation practices were maintained. With the phase-out of government production and storage programs, a guaranteed 100% free export market is now required to allow producers to profitably establish required production levels and adequate producer-held reserves. Mathematics teaches stable versus unstable equations to aid in designing controllable machine dynamics. Our government happened to pick an unstable equation for agricultural production and marketing when they applied the brakes on exports. The consumer majority and their representatives in the U.S.

Congress will have to face up to the fact that the agricultural production industry has now been economically shifted into international market gear. It can continue to produce profitably for itself and efficiently for the processors only if it can trade in a free market system without export restrictions randomly applied by the administration. The Congress may soon have to establish this as a protection by law so that the U.S. farm industry can offset the apparent losses that will have to be incurred in feeding the people of this country as is already the case with beef production.

What Price Detente?

NEW YORK - With Cambodia apparently doomed and Saigon reportedly abandoning twothirds of South Vietnam because of lack of military aid solemnly promised by the United States government, the humiliation of America and the weakening of its influence in world affairs is now beginning to assume ominous

Those who urge that the United States let the communists conquer Cambodia and South Vietnam make two major points:

(1) That there is no justification for the socalled "domino" theory that the communist conquest of Cambodia and South Vietnam will have grave consequences elsewhere in the free world;

(2) That America's European allies are not concerned about the U.S. letting Cambodia and South Vietnam go down the drain.

A commentator in the New York Times recently accused President Ford of being stuck with "the old rhetoric" in using the domino and American credibility arguments to "drum up support" for more aid to the freedom fighters of Southeast Asia.

One wonders who are the sources of information for such commentators. The Thailand government has just announced that it wants the United States to evacuate its military and air bases in that country within a year and that it intends to seek diplomatic relations with Communist China.

In November, 1973, the then prime minister of Thailand told me in Bangkok that America's withdrawal from Vietnam meant the U.S. could no longer be counted upon as an ally, and that Thailand would have to turn toward Communist

Sir Robert Thompson, one of Britain's leading experts on Southeast Asia who advised President Nixon and Henry Kissinger in 1969 that American military forces could be safely withdrawn from South Vietnam provided the United States supplied the South Vietnamese with sufficient aid to maintain a military balance with North Vietnam, warned in a recently published book that American abandonment of South Vietnam would adversely affect Israel and could eventually lead to the "strategic surrender" of the United States.

His prediction that the domino theory would quickly apply to Israel already appears to be coming true. Correspondents who accompanied Secretary of State Kissinger on his Middle East peace mission reported that he feels the deteriorating situation in Southeast Asia had an impact on his negotiations; that Israel is less inclined to make concessions to Egypt because of doubt about the credibility of American

Secretary Kissinger, described as pessimistic, was said to believe the Soviets are sure to view America's declining prestige as a sign of weakness and to try to take advantage of it in some way, either by adopting a hard line in the nuclear arms and other negotiatons or by risking dangerous moves elsewhere.

What more evidence is needed to prove the reality of the domino theory that President Eisenhower warned about in 1954?

Kissinger was also said to have told the correspondents on his plane that if he had known in 1972 and 1973 that Congress would cut aid to South Vietnam the way it has in the last year, he could not in good faith have negotiated the Paris Peace Agreement in the way he did. * * *

This tends to confirm a statement made to me in Paris a few weeks ago by Ambassador Nguyen Xuan Phong, South Vietnam's chief delegate to the moribund Vietnamese Peace

Phong said President Thieu, with the greatest reluctance, agreed to accept the Paris Pact only because he was solemnly assured by Kissinger that the United States government would faithfully keep the commitment it made in the peace agreement to replace, one for one, every piece of military equipment the South Vietnamese military forces lost in defending South Vietnam.

On Wednesday (March 19, 1975) Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the South Vietnamese forces were being forced to withdraw from the Northern and Central provinces because the United States had not replaced losses in aircraft, tanks, and armored personnel carriers, nor had sent spare parts for those damaged.

In the light of all this, what credence can America's allies place in the credibility of its commitments - and what price detente?

Hastings Youth Not Guilty Of Trying To Shoot Couple

Hastings (UPI) - John D. Clancy, 19, of Hastings was found innocent late Wednesday on two counts of shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim. Clancy was charged with shooting at Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hoyt at the Hoyt home last Nov. 25. He was accused of firing a single shot into the home. Hoyt is a Hastings Junior High School Melvin Isley, 23, was arrested special education teacher.

> The jury of 10 women and two men received the case at about 1:30 p.m. and returned the verdict three hours later.

> Clancy took the stand during the trial and denied that he intended to injure either Mr. or Mrs. Hoyt.

"I just wanted to break his window," Clancy responded when asked by County Attorney Art Toogood why he fired the shot into the Walter Hoyt home last Nov. 25

Clancy said he looked three times at the home before the shot was fired and he saw no evidence of any activity inside. Hoyt testified Tuesday he was standing in the living room of the home when he heard a loud noise. He said the bullet came within six inches of his body as it crashed through a window.

Hoyt's wife, Arlene, testified she was sitting on a couch and that the bullet missed her by about three feet.

Clancy testified he and William Henry Snell Jr. of Hastings, who has yet to appear on charges relating to the incident, had been drinking heavily before the incident. Clancy said he had consumed at least 8 beers and less than half a fifth of Scotch.

Suit Filed In Connection With Arrest

Omaha (AP) - A former Omaha policeman, now living in Lincoln, and an Omaha policeman have been named in a U.S. District Court suit asking for $70,000 in connection with an arrest they made in March 1974.

The Omaha policeman is Gary Boan, who still is on the force. The other defendant is Robert W. Parker of Lincoln.

The suit was filed by Earl L. Free, who now lives in San Bernardino, Calif., and Odell Moore Jr., 24, of Omaha.

The suit claims Free and Moore were involved in a scuffle with the two officers March 22, 1974. It alleges that Boan beat the pair and Parker did nothing to defend either of the men.

Each man is asking $35,000 in

The suit states that Free was charged with assault and battery and Moore with obstruction of justice. The charges against both men were dismissed May 28 in Omaha Municipal Court.

Weston Bar Destroyed By Flames

Weston (AP) - Don and Bill's Bar in downtown Weston was destroyed by fire Wednesday and a nearby warehouse suffered extensive damage, firemen said.

The cause of the fire in the two-story frame bar was not immediately determined. A fire department spokesman said apartments on the second floor of the structure were not occupied at the time

The Gale Du Bois warehouse was filled with furniture Though the warehouse does not adjoin the bar, firemen said it was located next door.

The blaze was believed to have started in the rear of the bar. Firemen from Wahoo, Malmo,

Omaha Council Leans Toward Lottery Okay

Omaha (AP) - The City Council was leaning toward a lottery Wednesday, after rejecting it twice previously.

Businessman Alan Baer suggested the lottery Tuesday night, saying it could be run by a nonprofit corporation.

If set up, weekly prizes of $50,-000 would be offered, as well as smaller prizes. Lottery tickets would be sold at nominal prices in retail outlets.

It was estimated revenue would be from $2 to $3 million and would be split evenly by the city government and the nonprofit corporation.

Baer said the corporation would use its half of the revenue to help develop the planned "superblock" of retail stores and parking downtown. The City Council would use its half as members wished.

The low bidder for grading and miscellaneous construction on N. 27th St. was incorrectly listed in Wednesday's Star. Theisen Brothers Inc. of Norfolk, with a $48,764 bid, was the correct low bidder. The bids were opened during hte Tuesday Lancaster County Board meeting.

The infamous 84th St tunnel, known locally as "that awful tunnel." has been the subject of controversy for several years. mainly because of the traffic bottleneck it causes everyday. A dispute over who should pay

The new, wider passage could be started next fall, but plans are subject to Union Pacific approval, Lamberty said.

But the detour could be as bad as the tunnel itself. Lamberty said sharp turns on the diversion route will force a reduction in speed to between 10 to 15 miles per hour.

Beatrice State Home Narrowly Fails Inspection

A national accreditation team has given the Beatrice State Home low marks for the condition of its living units and its evaluation procedures.

Jack Cleavenger, acting state director of public institutions, reported Wednesday that the home for mentally retarded citizens met 83% of the standards set out by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

The home had to meet 85% of the standards to become accredited.

Cleavenger said the evaluation team noted that a capital construction program now underway will alleviate the problems with living conditions. He also said deficiencies in evaluation and recording procedures have been corrected as of November 1974.

The State Department of Education will distribute up to $2 million in special education funds under LB555 by April 7, State Education Commissioner

Anne Campbell said Wednesday. She said 924 districts met the March 24 deadline to apply for the funds. Of those reporting, 653 districts said they have handicapped children, and 271 districts said they had no resident handicapped children receiving services since Dec. 31, 1974.

The Education Department received 94 responses after the March 24 deadline, but Dr. Campbell said the department could not honor those because of the specific 14-day requirement in LB555.

The Legislature passed the emergency measure to shake loose up to $2 million in funds that had been appropriated for LB403, the state special education law whose operation has problems. As of Wednesday, Dr.

Campbell said 223 districts did not respond in any manner. Three of those districts did not acknowledge receipt of the notice and application forms that were sent to school districts by certified mail.

The Education Department is computing the amount of money to be distributed to the eligible school districts, she said.

'That Awful UP Tunnel' May Close

Omaha (AP) - A narrow, antique tunnel under the Union Pacific mainline on Omaha's westside may be closed next

The infamous 84th St. tunnel, known locally as "that awful tunnel," has been the subject of controversy for several years, mainly because of the traffic bottleneck it causes everyday.

A dispute over who should pay for a new tunnel has also erupted between the city and the

Douglas County Surveyor Lou Lamberty says tentative plans call for closing the tunnel next winter, with traffic being detoured for about two years while a new tunnel is built.

The new, wider passage could be started next fall, but plans are subject to Union Pacific approval, Lamberty said.

But the detour could be as bad as the tunnel itself. Lamberty said sharp turns on the diversion route will force a reduction in speed to between 10 to 15 miles per hour.

Home Narrowly

A national accreditation team has given the Beatrice State Home low marks for the condition of its living units and its evaluation procedures.

Jack Cleavenger, acting state director of public institutions, reported Wednesday that the home for mentally retarded citizens met 83% of the standards set out by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

The home had to meet 85% of the standards to become ac-

Cleavenger said the evaluation team noted that a capital construction program now underway will alleviate the problems with living conditions. He also said deficiencies in evaluation and recording procedures have been corrected as of November 1974.

The team commended the home for its training programs and progressive goals, Cleavenger said. Cleavenger said a re-inspection will be requested in September 1975, which he said is the earliest possible date.

Easter Bunny Legend Began In Teutonic Lore

Ever wonder why the Easter Bunny became associated with the Christian celebration of Christ's resurrection?

In the Eighth Century, the Christians took the name of Eostre, the Teutonic goddess of spring and light, as their name for the celebration of Christ's resurrection. According to legend, the rabbit was originally a large and handsome bird — the pet of Eostre, who changed the bird into a

That, supposedly, is why the Easter bunny builds nests and fills them with colored eggs, according to researchers for Hallmark Cards.

The egg was seen by Egyptians, Greeks and Romans as a symbol of the universe and a token of spring and rebirth. Since early Christians stained eggs red to represent Christ's blood, coloring eggs at Easter has become a tradition in many countries.

Based on a European custom, the annual children's egg-rolling ceremony held on the White House lawn each Easter Monday was started in 1878 by President Rutherford B. Hayes and his wife, Lucy, who had eight children.

Chairman Gus Lieske of Omaha said comparisions of funding and programs in University of Nebraska medical areas probably won't be completed until August. The commission originally had a Jan. 1 deadline for its work.

The panel's subcommittee on agriculture and home economics, however, did submit its final report Wednesday, indicating the total budget of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources is fourth among the Big 8 states. NU Ranks Fifth

The report said Nebraska ranks fifth in budget comparisions of cash receipts from farm marketings during 1969-74, and fourth on the basis of the

Based on the average of those statistics, the subcommittee concluded that an additional $7.7 million "would be justifiable" for the Ag Institute in Lincoln, to bring Nebraska's investment in it equal to the average of the top three Big 8 states. That sum is based on 1974-75 budget figures and excludes inflationary factors.

Roland Emmett of Arapahoe called the Ag Institute recommendation part of a "complex jigsaw puzzle," and other commission members favored withholding such a proposal until analyses from all four study committees are in. Groups Agrees

To deal with the problem of what Emmett called "what we'd like to see and what we can afford" (and which Commissioner Jim O'Hanlon said "might be contradictory"), the group agreed to recommend to the governor:

All university funding recommendations should be based one-half on total per capita expenditures and one-half reached consensus it should tion, can we expect to be among on relative funding of programs between NU and other universities. The desired goal is to place NU at the average of the top three states of universities

Using that formula, the commission decided to recommend to Exon that the Ag Institute is currently underfunded by $3.5 million instead of $7.7 million. The lesser amount represents a budget increase of about one statement.

Divorced From Others

specific amount for the Ag Institute is divorced from any proposals forthcoming on group decided, after some disagrement.

The report also recommended an additional $175,000 for the Home Economimics College, to bring it up to the desired make recommendations on where the university should be," and encourage NU to generate cash and apply it to reduce the general fund tax > promise" method of averaging the people's tax burden and perstudent expenditures deals with steep dollar proposals requiring an unrealistic tax level, or too few dollars recommended eliminating necessary programs.

O'Hanlon pointed out, for example, that Ag Institute comparisions reported reveal less monetary need in relation to the other area states, but that greater appropriations deemed necessary reflect a "value

Tuitions Questioned Commissioners agreed with gubernatorial budget aide Jon Oberg, who noted, "If we're the top three without raising tuition?" The group also considered proposing giant boosts in non-Nebraska resident student tuition. In a lengthy discussion on a 37page preliminary report on state appropriations for education in Colorado, Iowa, Kansas. Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma, commissioners were told Nebraska is "average" in virtually all comparisions.

The report shows enrollment is slightly below the average for the region, concluding the burden isn't extraordinarily heavy on the state, and nonresident students are a negligible factor. However, Nebraska's sparse population makes education costs higher, while fewer graduate degrees given result in less costs than for states with heavy graduate and professional program enrollments.

At Least Average

In a survey of tax effort or fiscal capacity to support education, the report shows Nebraska is at least average or slightly above average for the region. The state revenue reliance is less than in the other states but the local burden is greater. Nebraska's total tax effort ranks fifth in the region.

In relation to all other spending by state governments. education ranks first in all states surveyed. However, Nebraska spends the smallest percentage on education, 37%, compared to a high of 43% in Colorado.

However, in per capita expenditures comparisions, Nebraska ranks variously second and third in state appropriations for higher education. Disproportionate Benefits

The report indicated that students who come from families with higher incomes benefit disproportionately more than those from lower-income families. Because Nebraska relies more heavily on the regressive sales tax for education subsidies, those families least able to pay provide a disproportionate share.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln generates the least revenue, 17.6%, from tuition and other required fees as a part of total education expenses. Colorado is high at 35.1%. Overall, the report said, Nebraska ranks in the upper half of the states in most appropriations comparision, although the state doesn't take as large a share of public money as other states in the region.

The Governor's Commission University Funding agreed Wednesday on a method to arrive at recommendations for appropriations, but it won't be of much immediate help to Gov. J. James Exon in his 1975-76 budget deliberations.

Chairman Gus Lieske of Omaha said comparisions of funding and programs in University of Nebraska medical areas probably won't be completed until August. The commission originally had a Jan. 1 deadline for its work.

The panel's subcommittee on agriculture and home economics, however, did submit its final report Wednesday, indicating the total budget of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources is fourth among the Big 8 states.

NU Ranks Fifth The report said Nebraska ranks fifth in budget comparisions of cash receipts from farm marketings during 1969-74, and fourth on the basis of the 1970 rural farm population.

Based on the average of those statistics, the subcommittee concluded that an additional $7.7 million "would be justifiable" for the Ag Institute in Lincoln, to bring Nebraska's investment in it equal to the average of the top three Big 8 states.

That sum is based on 1974-75 budget figures and excludes inflationary factors.

Groups Agrees To deal with the problem of what Emmett called "what we'd like to see and what we can afford" (and which Commissioner Jim O'Hanlon said "might be contradictory"), the group agreed to recommend to the

All university funding recommendations should be on relative funding of programs between NU and other universities. The desired goal is to place NU at the average of the top three states of universities

Using that formula, the commission decided to recommend to Exon that the Ag Institute is currently underfunded by $3.5 million instead of $7.7 million. The lesser amount represents a budget increase of about one-

Divorced From Others The recommendation for a specific amount for the Ag Institute is divorced from any proposals forthcoming on university-wide funding, the group decided, after some disagrement.

The report also recommended an additional $175,000 for the Home Economimics College, to bring it up to the desired

Regarding qualitative approaches to determine education based one-half on total per appropriations, the group capita expenditures and one-half reached consensus it should make recommendations on 'where the university should be," and encourage NU to generate cash and apply it to reduce the general fund tax O'Hanlon pointed out, for example, that Ag Institute comparisions reported reveal less monetary need in relation to the other area states, but that greater appropriations deemed necessary reflect a "value statement.

99% Nebraskans

The ag and home economics report noted that 99% of Ag College enrollment is Nebraska students; in 1974, 93% of the graduates remained in Nebraska and 57% of those went into farming or business and industry. having "a significant impact on the economy and society of O'Hanlon said the "compromise" method of averaging the people's tax burden and perstudent expenditures deals with steep dollar proposals requiring an unrealistic tax level, or too few dollars recommended eliminating necessary programs.

Lieske said NU is "presumably generating all the cash it can;" thus, "any increases recommended would fall on the taxpayer." He supported relying on a mixed potential of county and state sources.

tion, can we expect to be among the top three without raising tuition?" The group also considered proposing giant boosts in non-Nebraska resident student

In a lengthy discussion on a 37page preliminary report on state appropriations for education in Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma, commissioners were told Nebraska is "average" in virtually all comparisions.

The report shows enrollment is slightly below the average for the region, concluding the burden isn't extraordinarily heavy on the state, and nonresident students are a negligible factor. However, Nebraska's sparse population makes education costs higher, while fewer graduate degrees given result in less costs than for states with heavy graduate and professional program enrollments.

At Least Average In a survey of tax effort or fiscal capacity to support education, the report shows Nebraska is at least average or slightly above average for the region. The state revenue reliance is less than in the other states but the local burden is greater. Nebraska's total tax effort ranks fifth in the region.

In relation to all other spending by state governments. education ranks first in all states surveyed. However, Nebraska spends the smallest percentage on education, 37%, compared to a high of 43% in Colorado.

However, in per capita expenditures comparisions, Nebraska ranks variously second and third

in state appropriations for higher education. Disproportionate Benefits

The report indicated that students who come from families with higher incomes benefit disproportionately more than those from lower-income families. Because Nebraska relies more heavily on the regressive sales tax for education subsidies, those families least able to pay provide a disproportionate share. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln generates the least revenue, 17.6%, from tuition and other required fees as a part of total education expenses. Colorado is high at 35.1%

Overall, the report said, Nebraska ranks in the upper half of the states in most appropriations comparision, although the state doesn't take as large a share of public money as other states in the region.

Two Groups Check On Paving Projects

The State Highway Commis- assistant post under State Sion Wednesday heard delegations from Leshara and Cedar Creek ask about the status of paving projects affecting their areas.

The Cedar Creek delegation, led by Sen. Cal Carsten of Avoca and Mayor Tom West, was concerned about a two-mile spur, Hwy. 13H. The commission informed them that the project is in the final design stage and is scheduled for a bid letting in February, 1977.

The Leshara group, consisting of 25 people led by Cliff Zicafoose, was told that a 6.3mile stretch of gravel highway will be hard-surfaced according to the state's five-year plan for construction.

Corporate income tax receipts were down 9.2% for the same period, Peters said.

Total miscellaneous taxes for January, 1975, showed a growth of 6.5% over the same period a year ago.

The manager's attack on reporters came after the Tigers fell to the Kansas City Royals 5-1 behind the strong pitching of Nelson Briles and Steve Mingori. Briles was touched for three singles in the first six innings while Mingori set down the Tigers in order in the next two frames.

Another team of Tigers was also losing, 3-2 to the Boston Red Sox, and that didn't make Houk any happier.

Look Out Water Lovers!

Sunday I reported of increased boat sales for local marine dealers. That bit of information should be word of warning for those of us who make frequent use of the Salt Valley lake system surrounding Lincoln.

In years past, millions have made visits to the 10 lakes around Lincoln. Branched Oak and Pawnee have been the two most popular with beaches stacked, boats lined up at the boat ramps and waters crowded with fishermen, water skiers, sailboaters and canoeists.

Annually, letters come filtering in from sailboaters complaining about fishermen or skiers, from fishermen complaining about sailboaters or skiers and skiers complaining about you there are plenty of complaints. And with an occasional swimmer thinking beach rope markers are only to float over on their rubber mattresses, the problem goes on and grows on. Last year had an additional safety problem with drought

There never seems to be enough water to go around. But conditions drawing water levels to an all-time low. The low water brought hazards of no concern before dangerously near the surface. A number of speed boaters at Pawnee know what I mean. They lost engines and props to an old house foundation just below the surface.

The increased boat sales and likelihood of most of us staying closer to home this year magnifies the problem of our crowded conditions and the safety problems which parallel the crowd growth. Now, before you even think of getting on the water, is the time to think about doing something about safety.

Educate, Then Check Gear

The first thing to do is educate yourself on the safety aspects of boating. As the safety theme goes, "Safe boating is no accident." Catchy, isn't it, but so very true. The boater in the know is less likely to make a mistake.

Places to go for boating safety instruction include the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission and the U.S. Coast Guard Auxilliary. Both have pamphlets, films, books and instructors qualified and knowledgeable in the area of boating

The Game Commission is curently offering a series of safety promotions at stores or shopping areas across the state. It is hoped more people will be reached in this manner.

The Coast Guard Auxilliary of Lincoln annually conducts safe boating courses, an on-the-lake boating check to ensure more safe boating. Holmes Lake Marina also furnishes this service for canoers and sailers with canoe and sailing clinics coming up as the weather warms. Nebraskans were involved in 22 boating accidents a year ago with two fatalities reported. Several of those accidents occurred on the Salt Valley lakes. With the increased number of boats forecast for use on the Salt Valley lakes this year, let's all make an improved effort to prevent an increase in boating accidents as well.

'New' Sophomores May Spark UCLA

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Coach John Wooden has won unprecedented honors with his UCLA basketball teams, and he has another club that could win the national collegiate title with a couple of sophomores who weren't even on the floor at the

Marques Johnson, a star as a freshman a year ago, suffered a hepatitis attack early in 1974, and it took months for him to regain his strength.

Richard Washington, a heralded 6foot-91/4 freshman a year ago, challenged for starting jobs at either center or forward.

Wooden started the season with 7foot Ralph Drollinger at center, but then the tallest man on the squad was relegated to the No. 6 spot. Washington took over as the pivot, and Johnson came back as a starting for-

"This is one of the most pleasing teams I've ever coached," said Wooden, whose clubs have won the National Collegiate Ahtletic Association title nine times, including seven in a row in years when Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bill Walton were the All-American centers.

A year ago, the Bruins made it to the final series, losing in two overtimes to North Carolina State.

Dave Meyers, the Uclans' All-American, suffered knee, leg and ankle injuries late in the year but came back in the Western Regionals to in top form.

Still, it was Johnson who scored 35 points against Arizona State in the Western final when UCLA sparkled in a 89-75 victory at Portland and won the trip to San Diego where the Bruins seek their 10th NCAA title.

The games Saturday match Kentucky and Syracuse in the opener and UCLA and Louisville in the finale. Louisville is coached by Denny Crum, who played for and worked for Wooden at UCLA.

Of the Western Regional victory, Wooden commented, "It was truly a team victory with our intense defense. patience on offense and superb rebounding all helping to make it one of our better performances."

Wooden's chances for reaching the NCAA title tournament were questionable following the graduation of Walton and three other starters-Keith Wilkes, Greg Lee and Tommy Curtis.

He went for veteran Pete Trgovich and young Andre McCarter at the guards with Meyers at forward. Washington was the other forward with Drollinger at center. Then Johnson regained his strength and the 64-year-old coach switched his alignment.

"Almost every player contributed in his own special way," Wooden said after the victory over Arizona State. "Drollinger came off the bench and made an outstanding contribution and David Meyers, despite his nagging and painful injuries, got some key points and some extremely important rebounds.'

Grand Island - If there ever was an unlikely candidate for a race track management position, it would have to be Hugh Miner Jr.

Consider these drawbacks: -he was only 25 years old. -he had never even been to the races before. -he never had experience in anything as complex as running a race track.

Yet he overcame all those "handicaps" and now, as assistant general manager of Fonner Park, he has become one of the key personnel at Fonner's record-shattering spring horse race

'Sometimes, it's easier to take and shape someone who knows nothing about something than taking someone who has been involved in something," Miner said of his unfamiliarity with thoroughbred racing when he assumed his present job in the fall of 1970.

"One thing that's really helped me is having a super boss like Al (Fonner general manager Al Swihart)," he continued. "He's been great, especially in the first couple of years when I was just learning. He was so patient and obviously there were a lot of times when I asked questions that were so dumb, but he always helped me."

The circumstances of Miner achieving Fonner's "number two" post are strange, to say While raising a family in Grand Island, he commuted daily to Kearney State College. He also worked in a service station fulltime. Finally, he received a business administration degree in 1968 from Kearney State and began a tour of duty in the Army. One of his friends at Kearney was in contact with Swihart and asked him if he knew anyone who would be interested in becoming part of the Fonner team.

His friend contacted him while he was stationed at Fort Benning, Ga. Soon, he talked with Swihart, who eventually offered him the

"I've learned so much you wouldn't believe it," he said. "On any given day, I'll do so many things during the races. For instance, each day, I get here about 7 (a.m.) and get the jockey changes and scratches for the telephone recording (Fonner has a special recording giving racing information), then I make two tapes for radio stations, get the mail and start preparing for the day.

as Finley claimed.

'We're busy the whole year here, but as Mr. Swihart says the racing dollars make it all possible," he noted. "This track was organized to provide a facility to the community to hold activities in. It's Grand Island's civic center."

With activities ranging from cattle shows to circuses, Fonner Park facilities were used 135 days for 121 events in a recent one-year period, exclusive of the 90 days used by the race meet.

After the races end, Miner's next job is balancing the accounting books since Fonner's fiscal year ends on June 30. In fact, Miner has been at his desk every day since the start of the new year. But he doesn't keep track of the hours - it's something

"I just do what I have to to get the job done. We're real busy during the races and I really don't have any idea how many hours I put in," he said. "With horse racing, you can't learn about it by reading a book. You have to work with the sport.

"As a group, the horsemen have been most cooperative," he added. "Obviously, we're partners in racing and I find the majority of them pleasant. I enjoy working with them. You have to work together in this business."

Just in the five years Miner has been associated with Fonner, the Third City operation has expanded greatly. The new clubhouse, the increased purse schedule and the increasing non-racing activities have further diversified his

"No one had any idea that Fonner would grow into something this big," he said. "I'm proud to be a member of it."

Angered by what he feels is negative reporting, Detroit Tiger Manager Ralph Houk exploded Wednesday.

"You can say what you want about me," Houk told reporters, "but don't say anything about my players... Nobody sees anything good, only everything bad.

Houk said published criticisms have affected the team's many rookies. "The players will will do the job when the bell rings" for the regular season, he said.

The manager's attack on reporters came after the Tigers fell to the Kansas City Royals 5-1 behind the strong pitching of Nelson Briles and Steve Mingori. Briles was touched for three singles in the first six innings while Mingori set down the Tigers in order in the next two frames.

Another team of Tigers was also losing, 3-2 to the Boston Red Sox, and that didn't make Houk any happier.

Look Out Water Lovers!

Sunday I reported of increased boat sales for local marine dealers. That bit of information should be word of warning for those of us who make frequent use of the Salt Valley lake system surrounding Lincoln.

In years past, millions have made visits to the 10 lakes around Lincoln. Branched Oak and Pawnee have been the two most popular with beaches stacked, boats lined up at the boat ramps and waters crowded with fishermen, water skiers, sailboaters and canoeists.

Annually, letters come filtering in from sailboaters complaining about fishermen or skiers, from fishermen complaining about sailboaters or skiers and skiers complaining about you know who.

There never seems to be enough water to go around. But there are plenty of complaints. And with an occasional swimmer thinking beach rope markers are only to float over on their rubber mattresses, the problem goes on and grows on.

Last year had an additional safety problem with drought conditions drawing water levels to an all-time low. The low water brought hazards of no concern before dangerously near the surface. A number of speed boaters at Pawnee know what I mean. They lost engines and props to an old house foundation just below the surface.

The increased boat sales and likelihood of most of us staying closer to home this year magnifies the problem of our crowded conditions and the safety problems which parallel the crowd growth. Now, before you even think of getting on the water, is the time to think about doing something about safety.

Educate, Then Check Gear

The first thing to do is educate yourself on the safety aspects of boating. As the safety theme goes, "Safe boating is no accident." Catchy, isn't it, but so very true. The boater in the know is less likely to make a mistake.

Places to go for boating safety instruction include the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission and the U.S. Coast Guard Auxilliary. Both have pamphlets, films, books and instructors qualified and knowledgeable in the area of boating

The Game Commission is curently offering a series of safety promotions at stores or shopping areas across the state. It is hoped more people will be reached in this manner.

The Coast Guard Auxilliary of Lincoln annually conducts safe boating courses, an on-the-lake boating check to ensure more safe boating.

Holmes Lake Marina also furnishes this service for canoers and sailers with canoe and sailing clinics coming up as the Nebraskans were involved in 22 boating accidents a year ago with two fatalities reported. Several of those accidents occurred on the Salt Valley lakes. With the increased number of boats forecast for use on the Salt Valley lakes this year, let's all make an improved effort to prevent an increase in boating accidents as well.

'New' Sophomores May Spark UCLA

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Coach John Wooden has won unprecedented honors with his UCLA basketball teams, and he has another club that could win the national collegiate title with a couple of sophomores who weren't even on the floor at the season's start.

Marques Johnson, a star as a freshman a year ago, suffered a hepatitis attack early in 1974, and it took months for him to regain his strength.

Richard Washington, a heralded 6foot-91/4 freshman a year ago, challenged for starting jobs at either center or forward.

Wooden started the season with 7foot Ralph Drollinger at center, but then the tallest man on the squad was relegated to the No. 6 spot. Washington took over as the pivot, and Johnson came back as a starting forward.

"This is one of the most pleasing teams I've ever coached," said Wooden, whose clubs have won the National Collegiate Ahtletic Association title nine times, including seven in a row in years when Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bill Walton were the All-American centers.

A year ago, the Bruins made it to the final series, losing in two overtimes to North Carolina State.

Dave Meyers, the Uclans' All-American, suffered knee, leg and ankle injuries late in the year but came back in the Western Regionals to in top form.

Still, it was Johnson who scored 35 points against Arizona State in the Western final when UCLA sparkled in a 89-75 victory at Portland and won the trip to San Diego where the Bruins seek their 10th NCAA title.

The games Saturday match Kentucky and Syracuse in the opener and UCLA and Louisville in the finale. Louisville is coached by Denny Crum, who played for and worked for Wooden at UCLA.

Of the Western Regional victory, Wooden commented, "It was truly a team victory with our intense defense. patience on offense and superb rebounding all helping to make it one of our better performances.'

Wooden's chances for reaching the NCAA title tournament were questionable following the graduation of Walton and three other starters-Keith Wilkes, Greg Lee and Tommy Curtis.

He went for veteran Pete Trgovich and young Andre McCarter at the guards with Meyers at forward. Washington was the other forward with Drollinger at center. Then Johnson regained his strength and the 64-year-old coach switched his alignment.

"Almost every player contributed in his own special way," Wooden said after the victory over Arizona State. "Drollinger came off the bench and made an outstanding contribution and David Meyers, despite his nagging and painful injuries, got some key points and some extremely important rebounds."

Korbut Shows Tact, Finesse

By CRAIG AMMERMAN AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - After she has won enough gold medals and friends to last several lifetimes, the Soviet Union ought to turn Olga Korbut into a diplomat. Her finesse in dealing with people at the tender age of 19 nearly equalsnher incredible ability on the parallel bars.

Utilizing the marvels of modern communications, Miss Korbut was interviewed this week in Moscow by comedian Bob Hope and newswoman Barbara Walters, who talked to her via satellite from New York.

The occasion was a taping session for an athletic awards show Hope and Ms. Walters are hosting on NBC April 8. Miss Korbut is one of the winners.

Celtics topped the New Orleans Jazz, 113-100: New York stomped Philadelphia, 128-98, and the Detroit Pistons shaded the Portland Trailblazers 110-107.

The Buffalo win coupled with the Celtics victory boosted Boston into the top sport of the Atlantic Division by percentage points over the Bullets.

Jo Jo White sparked the Celtics enough to pull away from the Jazz in the third period. After leading 43-42 at the end of the half Boston built a 50-43 lead early in the third quarter.

Smith, who finished with 12 points for the Braves, hit an 18 foot corner jump shot with 25 seconds remaining to put Buffalo ahead 92-91 after the Bullets had come from 16 points down to lead three times in the final period.

After Smith scored, Bullets' Mike Riordan missed a jumper with 14 seconds to play, Buffalo's Garfield Heard rebounded, and passed downcourt to McAdoo who scored an easy layup with three seconds remaining.

Earl Monroe scored 26 points and Walt Frazier added 25 to lead the Knicks in their win over the 76ers.

The Knicks shot over 60% in the first half to take a halftime advantage of 67-45.

Grand Island - If there ever was an unlikely candidate for a race track management position, it would have to be Hugh Miner Jr.

Consider these drawbacks: -he was only 25 years old.

-he had never even been to the races -he never had experience in anything as complex as running a race track. Yet he overcame all those "handicaps" and now, as assistant general manager of Fonner Park, he has become one of the key personnel at Fonner's record-shattering spring horse race

"Sometimes, it's easier to take and shape someone who knows nothing about something than taking someone who has been involved in something," Mine said of his unfamiliarity with thoroughbred racing when he assumed his present job in the fall of 1970.

"One thing that's really helped me is having a super boss like Al (Fonner general manager Al Swihart)," he continued. "He's been great, especially in the first couple of years when I was just learning. He was so patient and obviously there were a lot of times when I asked questions that were so dumb, but he always helped me."

The circumstances of Miner achieving Fonner's "number two" post are strange, to say

While raising a family in Grand Island, he commuted daily to Kearney State College. He also worked in a service station fulltime. Finally, he received a business administration degree in 1968 from Kearney State and began a tour of duty in the Army. One of his friends at Kearney was in contact with Swihart and asked him if he knew anyone who would be interested in becoming part of the Fonner team.

His friend contacted him while he was stationed at Fort Benning, Ga. Soon, he talked with Swihart, who eventually offered him the

"I've learned so much you wouldn't believe it," he said. "On any given day, I'll do so many things during the races. fiscal year ends on June 30. In fact, Miner has been at his desk every day since the start of the new year. But he doesn't keep track of the hours - it's something

"I just do what I have to to get the job done. We're real busy during the races and I really don't have any idea how many hours I put in," he said. "With horse racing, you can't learn about it by reading a book. You have to work with the sport.

"As a group, the horsemen have been most cooperative," he added. "Obviously, we're partners in racing and I find the majority of them pleasant. I enjoy working with them. You have to work together in this business."

Just in the five years Miner has been associated with Fonner, the Third City operation has expanded greatly. The new clubhouse, the increased purse schedule and the increasing non-racing activities have further diversified his

Senators Approve Farm Support Bill

Washington (UPI) - Despite hikes in supports for milk and threats of a presidential veto, the tobacco. Senate Wednesday approved an emergency farm support bill which administration officials claim could cost taxpayers more than $19.7 billion over the next three years.

Senate farm leaders challenged the cost estimates as inflated, however. They said their fattened-up version of a $470 million, one-year bill passed by the House last week was needed to protect farmers against economic disaster and assure consumers of adequate future food supplies.

The Senate passed the bill by a rollcall vote of 57 to 25, above the two-thirds margin of those voting which would be needed to override a veto. However, the margin had been lower in the House for its more modest bill.

The bill would provide threeyear increases in supports for wheat, feed grains, soybeans and cotton. It also includes one-year

Curtis, Hruska Back Farm Bill

Washington (AP) -Nebraska's Republican Sen. Roman Hruska voted for the emergency farm aid bill Wednesday, which was passed by the senate on a 57 to 25 roll call vote.

Sen. Carl Curtis also voted for the bill, but was paired with another senator who voted against the measure. Pairing designates opposing positions in the absence of one or both

Before passing the expanded version drafted by its Agriculture Committee, the Senate agreed to boost the proposed wheat target price to $3.41 a bushel compared with the $3.10 approved by the House and the existing level of $2.05. Experts estimated the Senate action would add $455 million to costs in 1975 and might cause added spending in later years.

The Senate swept aside efforts by anti-smoking crusaders to eliminate its proposed increase in tobacco supports or to eliminate tobacco subsidies altogether.

It approved, however, a 90-day moratorium on beef imports which was expected to meet stiff resistance when a Senate-House Conference Committee draws up a final version of the farm bill early next month.

The Senate Agriculture Committee estimated its bill would cost $580 million or less in 1975, and Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., said that unless basic commodity prices collapse "there would be practically no additional costs to the government.

But Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, in estimates which may later be raised because of the Senate floor action to further boost wheat supports, said the bill would cost taxpayers nearly $2.2 billion in its first year and at least $7.9 billion and $9.5 billion in the following two years.

Thieu's Government Says Attempted Coup Crushed

Saigon (UPI) - President Nguyen Van Thieu's government announced Thursday it had crushed an attempted coup and arrested a number of "short-sighted" persons who plotted the overthrow.

A government spokesman in Saigon said of the coup attempt: "These elements have been arrested and further investigations are being carried on."

The announcement came from the interior ministry -- charged with internal security -- and not from the presidential palace.

Rumors of a coup attempt by dissident generals and officers dissatisfied with Thieu's military leadership in recent days had been making the rounds in Saigon It was assumed that the leaders of the coup were military men. but there was no confirmation

The government immediately cut all normal communications with the outside world shortly after news of the coup attempt leaked out.

The officers, three of whom government sources said were under house arrest, were said to have been angered by the government's orders to retreat from several provinces in the face of a Communist offensive.

The government has given up 10 provinces in the past 10 days, most of them without a fight, apparently under orders from Thieu

Saigon was calm, with most residents apparently unaware of the reported coup attempt. Government sources said at least three dissident generals were under house arrest and identified them as:

Maj. Gen. Pham Van Phu, commander of the II Corps stationed in the Central Highlands before they were abandoned to Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops; Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, appointed a few days ago as the new military commander of the provinces around Saigon; and Rear Adm Chung Tan Cang, who had preceded Minh in the post of Saigon area commander.

A government announcement said only that some "short-sighted elements" had attempted to overthrow the government and that the conspiracy was under investigation

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf told his constitutents Wednesday he is in good health and is ready to wage a vigorous campaign to keep his job as Lincoln's chief challenged the cost estimates as inflated, however. They said their fattened-up version of a $470 million, one-year bill passed by the House last week was needed to protect farmers against economic disaster and assure consumers of adequate future food supplies.

The Senate passed the bill by a rollcall vote of 57 to 25, above the two-thirds margin of those voting which would be needed to override a veto. However, the margin had been lower in the House for its more modest bill.

The bill would provide threeyear increases in supports for wheat, feed grains, soybeans and cotton. It also includes one-year

Before passing the expanded version drafted by its Agriculture Committee, the Senate agreed to boost the proposed wheat target price to 3.41 a bushel compared with Senate farm leaders the $3.10 approved by the House and the existing level of $2.05. Experts estimated the Senate action would add $455 million to costs in 1975 and might cause added spending in later years.

The Senate swept aside efforts by anti-smoking crusaders to eliminate its proposed increase in tobacco supports or to eliminate tobacco subsidies altogether.

It approved, however, a 90-day moratorium on beef imports which was expected to meet stiff resistance when a Senate-House Conference Committee draws up a final version of the farm bill early next month.

The Senate Agriculture Committee estimated its bill would cost $580 million or less in 1975, and Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., said that unless basic commodity prices collapse "there would be practically no additional costs to the government."

But Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, in estimates which may later be raised because of the Senate floor action to further boost wheat supports, said the bill would cost taxpayers nearly $2.2 billion in its first year and at least $7.9 billion and $9.5 billion in the following two years.

Thieu's Government Says Attempted Coup Crushed

Saigon (UPI) - President Nguyen Van Thieu's government announced Thursday it had crushed an attempted coup and arrested a number of "short-sighted" persons who plotted

A government spokesman in Saigon said of the coup attempt: "These elements have been arrested and further investigations are being carried on.'

The announcement came from the interior ministry - charged with internal security - and not from the presidential palace.

Rumors of a coup attempt by dissident generals and officers dissatisfied with Thieu's military leadership in recent days had been making the rounds in Saigon. It was assumed that the leaders of the coup were military men, but there was no confirmation.

The government immediately cut all normal communications with the outside world shortly after news of the coup attempt leaked out.

The officers, three of whom government sources said were under house arrest, were said to have been angered by the government's orders to retreat from several provinces in the face of a

The government has given up 10 provinces in the past 10 days, most of them without a fight, apparently under orders from Thieu.

Saigon was calm, with most residents apparently unaware of the reported coup attempt. Government sources said at least three dissident generals were under house arrest and identified them as:

Maj. Gen. Pham Van Phu, commander of the II Corps stationed in the Central Highlands before they were abandoned to Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops; Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, appointed a few days ago as the new military commander of the provinces around Saigon; and Rear Adm. Chung Tan Cang, who had preceded Minh in the post of Saigon area commander.

A government announcement said only that some "short-sighted elements" had attempted to overthrow the government and that the conspiracy was under investigation.

The brief government announcement gave few details. The announcement came from the interior ministry - charged with internal security - and not from the presidential palace.

Donald Crews had proposed construction of a single story office building to house professional people. Realtor Dick Putney told commissioners there is a demand to have office space in south Lincoln, but there are no buildings to house those offices.

Partly In Floodplain

Although the use of the land was an issue, commissioners had trouble coming to grips with the matter since a portion of the land is in the 100-year floodplain and in an area which has been scared by numerous zoning battles.

Crews' land is part of a stretch of essentially vacant property on Normal from 40th to 47th. Most of it is zoned for residential use, except for a strip of multiple dwelling in the heart of the stretch and a strip of commercial near 47th. The city is in a court battle over the multiple zoning.

Because of the land's proximity to the floodplain, Crews' attorney had argued last week that the property would not be suitable for homes.

along Normal is not the answer to developing the land. But, the council doesn't want business out there either. Because of state restrictions on how floodplain land can be developed, Commissioner Bob Allington said, "This is just a poor piece of land. Making it commercial won't change that."

Commissioner Jim Hacker, who voted for the zoning, said regardless of the floodplain issue, he doubted whether homes would ever be built on Crews' property because it is squeezed in between the Americana Nursing Home to the east and the multiple zoning to

The planning commission ititially had recommended City Council denial of the C multiple zoning, chairman George Williamson pointed out, indicating he was hopeful that an entire land use plan for the area could be developed.

The commission agreed to discuss that issue at an April meeting.

The denial recommendation will be forwarded to the City Council for action.

Request Withdrawn

In other business developer Richard Halverson withdrew his request for multiple zoning on 20 acres near 14th and Knox. He had proposed to build lower cost housing in the Belmont neighborhood.

A suit contending that a Lincoin house where liquor allegedly is sold or given away is a public nuisance has been filed in Lancaster County District Court.

The suit, filed by the county attorney's office against Charles Finney, 2245 T, seeks a temporary injunction against the activities in the home and asks that the house be "closed and padlocked" until the defendant posts a bond guaranteeing that 'alcoholic liquor will not be manufactured, processed, sold, bartered or given away."

Earlier this year, city police arrested 59 persons at the T St. address in what police described as an "after hours club." The raid resulted in more arrests than any other single raid in Lincoln history.

The downtown should remain the office capitol of Lincoln, city planners said Wednesday, so they put thumbs down on a request to allow construction of a suburban office building.

A majority of the City-County Planning Commission said commercial zoning on a 3.1-acre site along Normal Blvd. west of Cotner Blvd. would encourage

Commissioner Jim Hacker, who voted for the zoning, said regardless of the floodplain issue, he doubted whether homes would ever be built on Crews' property because it is squeezed in between the Americana Nursing Home to the east and the multiple zoning to

The commission agreed to discuss that issue at an April

Private Ambulances Approach Reaffirmed

The City-County Implementation Commission (CCIC) Wednesday reaffirmed a subcommittee's report calling for private ambulance companies to beef up their operations to serve rural residents.

The CCIC's action came in response to a report from Fire Chief Dallas Johnson, who recommended that a separate emergency-medical service (EMS) team be set up to serve Lincoln and Lancaster County.

A subcommittee on Fire and EMS and a citizens advisory committee urged the CCIC to stick with its original recommendation on improving ambulance firms' services.

CCIC Chairman Jack Thompson explained that Johnson sub-

Johnson's proposals "strikes me as an afterthought," Thompson told other members of the CCIC, a group studying merger of city and county government.

Representatives of local ambulance companies objected to a government takeover of their duties, noting they have been working with officials to set up a county-wide system.

Schwartzkopf did not attend the CCIC meeting and did not comment on his request to John-

The suit, filed by the county attorney's office against Charles Finney, 2245 T, seeks a temporary injunction against the activities in the home and asks that the house be "closed and padlocked" until the defendant posts a bond guaranteeing that "alcoholic liquor will not be manufactured, processed, sold, bartered or given away."

Earlier this year, city police arrested 59 persons at the T St. address in what police described as an "after hours club." The raid resulted in more arrests than any other single raid in Lincoln history.

Finney was not involved in the mass arrest.

for his two-part Watergate interview, as well as public criticism leading to the recent cancellations of lecture tours by Ronald L. Ziegler and John W. Dean III.

Statement Issued

An inquiry at Nixon's office here was answered with the following statement by Joanne Miller, a staff assistant:

'Because of commitments Mr. Nixon already has in meeting deadlines for publication of the first volume of his memoirs, and also because of continuing restrictions placed on his activity by his doctors, it is not possible to schedule any interviews in the foreseeable future.'

Ziegler, who was Nixon's White House press chief and accompanied him into retirement last Aug. 9 as his principal adviser, was understood to have strongly opposed the television project from the outset, following his own brief venture before the public and his first-hand opportunity to assess the national mood.

The former president's physician, Dr. John Lungren of Long Beach, and his attorneys, Herber J. Miller Jr. in Washington and Dean Butler in Los Angeles, also were critical of the proposal as having medical and possibly legal

'Time Not Right'

Ziegler was quoted by a source as saying that "the time and the public's perspective are not yet right" for Nixon to embark on public appearances

On Feb. 22, amid efforts to obtain a financial commitment for a Nixon television appearance, the former special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski, publicly called on the former president to come forward to tell the American people "the truth about Watergate.'

Dean, in abandoning his lecture tour, also urged Nixon to explain publicly his role in the scandal, as did Haldeman in the first of his two paid interviews on CBS television last Sunday

Glamors, Blue Chips Pace Rally

NEW YORK (AP) - Glamors and blue chips paced a apirited stock market rally Wednesday, supported by endof-quarter institutional buying and hopes for quick passage of a $24.8 billion bax cut package.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials gained 18.30 to 766.19, on top of a 4.46-point rise on Tuesday. The market thus appered to have pulled out of a five-day, 41-point tailspin brought on by profit taking and disappointment over the recent turn of events in the Middle East and Indochina.

"The news quieted down and the market went up," said analyst Newton Zinder, nothing the lack Wednesday of new shockers from the Middle East and other trouble spots.

Big Board sales totaled 18.58 million shares, a shade higher than the 18.5 million the day before.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index climbed 1.53 to 83.59, and the NYSE's composite stock index added 0.79 to 44.31.

The market also seemed hopeful President Ford and Congress would agree on a $24.8 billion tax cut and spending package before the Easter recess, despite Ford's stated reservations over the measure. A joint congressional conference committee agreed on the package Wednesday aimed at giving a boost to the sagging

There also were strong signs in the marketplace that bank portfolio managers and fund managers 'feel underinvested and aren't letting the market go down," according to analyst Robert Stovall of Reynolds Securities, Inc. He and others noted that as the end of a fiscal quarter approaches, fund managers "window-dress" their portfolios with high-priced stocks to show that they've managed well during the reporting period.

Institutional favorites thus led the market rally for the second straight session. The glamor stock Polaroid topped the active list, up 15% at Among other glamors, Halliburton rose 33/4 to 142. Burroughs 3 to 913/4, Xerox 23/4 to 73, Johnson & Johnson 21/2 to 933/4, and Disney, heavily traded, gained 2 to 45. Blue chips also held the spotlight. Among those listed in the Dow industrial average, Du Pont added 3% to 98%, Eastman Kodak 23/4 to 921/4, Exxon 2½ to 74 and procter & Gamble 21/8 to 945/8.

NVF Co. surged 31/8 to 207/8, reflecting news the company's directors voted a two-for-one stock split and a 25 per cent extra stock dividend. Chemical New York, forecasting strong profits for the first quarter, rose 3/4 to 333/4.

A.E. Staley Manufacturing rose 5 to 721/2 on reports it is optimistic that corn surup will sell well as a sugar substitute. In other actives, Avco Corp. gained 1/8 to 43/8 including a 109,900-share block at 41/8. The advance came despite news the company's first quarter earnings fell sharply to 3 cents a share, compared with 41 cents a largest city during January of this year dropped 9.6 per cent below the figures recorded during the same month last year, according to survey completed by U.S. News & World Report. The Omaha slump was the next-to-worst in the 72-city study. Only Jacksonville, Fla., which recorded a decline of 12.4 per cent, was worse the magazine said. Local business officials blame much of the decline on the blizzard that struck the city Jan. 10. "The storm closed our stores for three days. That's 10 per cent of the business right there," said

John D. Diesing, vice president and secretary of Brandeis. "It was a lousy month for weather. That had a direct effect on sales," said George Wruck, general manager of the Retail Merchants of Greater Omaha. Wruck also said many persons stayed away from business districts for several days after the storm because crews were busy cleaning up the mess.

Forecast for Thursday

Pisces loves a mystery. The native can be sensitive, jealous of reputation and privacy. The Pisces woman is glamorous and adores secrets. The Pisces man understands where the bodies are buried and what to do about it. The Piscean, man or woman, perceives potential, com-prehends poetic prophecy and has an un-canny knack for touching the "funny bone." Yes, Pisces makes us taugh while leading us through a labyrinth of moods.

ARIÈS (March 21-April 19): Lie low. Wait and observe. Be positive concerning legalities of any proposition. If you begin something, you could discover that you are in "over your head." Thus, don't start unless willing to be pressured. No one is going to hand you anything on proverhial silver platter.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be aware of implications in Aries message. Do what you do in complete, lusty, dedicated manner. If you are lukewarm in approach, you lessen odds for success. Be vital, dynamic and willing to finish project. Aries, Libra persons will play prominent roles.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Strive for freedom to move, to create, to imprint personal style. Yes, be selfish! You do have a life of your own to live. Others must be made aware of that obvious fact. One who is stubborn, temperamental and affectionate will finally make necessary concession.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Low-profile approach is best—don't stir up the natives. Harmony, especially at home, is more important than usual. Taurus, Libra could be in picture. Be a comparison shopper. Count your change. Mistakes could occur—at your expense.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper lett-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
